

Psalms 123:01 A Song of degrees.
Unto thee lift I up mine eyes, O thou that dwellest in the heavens.

The image features two large, deep red roses in full bloom. The rose in the foreground is slightly to the left and more in focus, showing the intricate layering of its petals. The second rose is to its right and slightly behind, also in bloom. Both roses have green leaves at their base. The background is a soft-focus view of a grey metal fence with vertical bars, and some green foliage is visible behind the fence. The overall lighting is natural, highlighting the texture of the rose petals.

Psalm 123:02 Behold, as the eyes of servants look unto the hand of their masters, and as the eyes of a maiden unto the hand of her mistress; so our eyes wait upon the LORD our God, until that he have mercy upon us.

Psalms 123:03 Have mercy upon us, O LORD, have mercy upon us: for we are exceedingly filled with contempt.

Psalms 123:04 Our soul is exceedingly filled with the scorning of those that are at ease, and with the contempt of the proud.
